This quick 'n easy party game can be enjoyed by cinephiles and casual film fans alike, and features classic reviews written by 80's icon Leonard Maltin, the supreme king of the silver screen. The rest of the players (Imposters) each craft their own false movie synopsis while attempting to mirror the writing style of the original King of Movies. Once the players' submissions are mixed up with the real synopsis, The Maltin reads them to the group out loud while Imposters vote to identify which one they believe is Maltin's own handiwork. Points are earned by identifying the real review, or by fooling others into thinking yours was written by Maltin.

TANKS, BUT NO THANKS!
Tanks, But No Thanks! is set on the battlefield (grid board) where each player controls their own tank battalion firing at other battalions and trying to avoid enemy fire. At the beginning of the game each player is given a secret early victory mission card. On their turn, players can choose between aiming and firing at the enemy or move to evade the enemy. There are also enhancements in the form of the special bonus power cards and early victory mission cards. The winner is either the player who has the last battalion standing or the first player to complete their early victory mission, whichever happens first.
