DUST TACTICS: RULEBOOK

The year is 1947. The leading world powers are now aligned in three huge groups: the Allies, the Axis, and the Sino-Soviet Union (SSU). Throughout the world, these three blocs are fighting to gain exclusive control over a new resource known to the Germans as Vril-Kultur (VK). This ore has revealed extraordinary properties and brought forth the design of gigantic combat walkers, capable of challenging the world's most advanced tanks. The discovery and first military applications of VK were developed by Germany with everything concerning this ore shrouded in mystery. Rumors of alien visitors from another planet and secret weapons abound... but who could take such rumors seriously after years of wartime propaganda?

NAPOLEON AT WATERLOO

Napoleon had triumphantly returned to Europe from his banishment on Elbe, and by June 18, 1815, his army of 72,000 men was on the verge of victory. He had split the Prussian Army from that of the British; so Napoleon could concentrate on defeating Wellington's seemingly motley force of 68,000 English recruits, Hanover and Brunswick levies and Netherlands militia. Moreover, he had nearly 100 more cannon than his opponents, and he believed the coming battle would be nothing more than an affair of the morning. Can you, as French commander, win the game and change history or will the Allies prevail again? Your tactics will decide the outcome! Scheduled to ship in May 2014.

THE CONQUEST OF SAXONY 782-785 AD

Charlemagne's conquests became the driving force in European politics between the Muslim defeat at Poitiers and the Crusades. Charlemagne's conquest of the Saxons was the hardest fought and most protracted of his wars. It involved 18 campaigns spread over 33 years, a great deal of lower-level fighting, and the harshest final peace settlement that Charlemagne ever imposed upon a defeated foe. This was also the most important of all Charlemagne's wars for the future direction and character of European history and, paradoxically, it also began the long process of uniting the German-speaking peoples. In the key Pacific War battles of the Marianas Turkey Shoot, Leyte Gulf, and in and around Japan itself (from late 1943 through to VJ-Day), the principal fighters involved were the F6F Hellcat and the A6M5/7 Zero-sen. INVASION 1914: THE SCHLIEFFEN PLAN TO THE BATTLE OF THE MARNE

The German invasion of France and Belgium in August 1914 came agonizingly close to defeating the French armies, capturing Paris, and ending the First World War before the autumn leaves had fallen. The initial German strategy revolved around, and in part depended on, rapid victory over the French, but they were unable to deliver the knock-out blow they had planned - and the surprisingly fluid battles of the early days of the war deteriorated into the defensive, trench-based warfare which was to see the war drag on for another four years of unprecedented slaughter. SLEEPING DRAGON, RISING SUN

China, the greatest empire the world had ever known, is weak and divided after a series of humiliating defeats in the Opium Wars, and the divine Empress' court harbours many who deeply resent the westerners who inflicted and now take advantage of these losses. Japan, on the other hand, has embraced the West with open arms. After centuries of isolation, the Japanese now march forward and accept technologies that, a few decades before, would have been regarded as witchcraft. Possessed of the East's most modern army, Japan now looks avariciously towards its neighbors. US NAVY DREADNOUGHTS 1914-45

When the United States went to war with Spain in April 1898, few European observers believed the small and relatively inexperienced American navy could achieve a decisive naval victory over an established European colonial power. To remedy the lack of naval preparedness for America's sudden emergence as a world power, Roosevelt and the United States embarked on rapid naval building program. However, as impressive as the spectacle of the Great White Fleet was, all of the ships in it were quickly being rendered obsolescent by the dreadnought-type battleships coming into service in Great Britain and Germany. This did not catch the United States off-guard, as the USS South Carolina, America's first dreadnought, was already fitting out. By the beginning of World War I, the United States possessed the third largest navy in the world and had ten dreadnoughts in service with four more under construction. Scheduled to ship in August 2014.
